CITY LONDON

Don't forget!

Books are free to borrow, as long as you bring them back on time.

One in four of our children's books, CDs or story tapes is returned late. Please return your books and audio on time so that other children can enjoy them and learn from them.

Charges for overdue loans now apply to children's books and audio too.

Food for thought!

Guildhall Library has the largest public collection of food, drink and cookery books in the UK. With material dating from the 16th to 21st centuries, this collection of over 10,000 books includes the personal library of Elizabeth David, the Andre Simon Collection and the Institute of Masters of Wine Collection.

Shrewsbury Cakes

A 17th century recipe from the Guildhall Library collections

8 oz. plain flour; 8 oz. caster sugar; 8 oz. butter; 1 tsp. caraway seeds; 1 tsp. of grated nutmeg; 3 eggs; 3 tsp. sherry; 3 tsp. rose water.

Oven: 350f. / 180c. Gas mark 4

Rub the dry ingredients together with the butter until the mixture resembles breadcrumbs. Beat the eggs with the sherry and rose water and gradually add to the flour and butter mixture until a dough is formed. Roll the dough out to a quarter inch thick and cut into what shapes you please. Bake for about 20 minutes until very pale golden-brown.
